C# Foundations Course

Duration: 5 Days

In this course participants will learn how to program .NET applications with C#. The course should begin with an introduction to the fundamentals of the language, and quickly move on to demonstrate how to write object-oriented code. The heart of the course is a detailed description of writing Windows and Web applications, including Web Services, and interacting with back end databases through ADO.NET.

Course Outline:

This 5 Day course consists of three different levels:

Level 1: Visual C# .NET 2003 Fundamentals

This course begins with an overview of C# and the .NET platform. In this course, participants will learn the fundamentals of the C# language including how to set up the application development environment and how to write the first simple C# applications. Participants will learn about variables and constants, expressions and statements, operators and namespaces. Most important, participants will learn how to create classes and instantiate objects. This course will provide a solid foundation for exploring the .NET framework as well as advanced topics in C#.

In Level 1, participants will learn to:

- Understand the design goals of C# and .NET.
- Write participants own simple programs in Visual Studio .NET
- Understand reference types and value types.
- Understand variables and constants.
- Differentiate between expressions and statements.
- Create classes and instantiate objects.

Level 2: Object-Oriented Visual C# .NET 2003

In this course participants will learn the three pillars of object oriented programming: Inheritance, Polymorphism and Encapsulation. Participants will see how these ideas are implemented in C# classes, and they will be able to examine the difference between classes, structures and interfaces. Along the way participants will also learn about Arrays and the C# collection classes, as well as string manipulation and the use of regular expressions. Finally, participants will learn how to use Delegates and Events to build event-driven applications with C#.

In Level 2, the participants should learn to:

- Create and overload class methods and operators.
- Understand encapsulation and data hiding.
- Use inheritance to implement specialization and factoring
- Use virtual functions to support polymorphism.
- Use and create interfaces and structs
- Create and use arrays, arrayLists and other collections
- Work with strings and regular expressions

Level 3: Building Applications with Visual C# .NET 2003

In Level 3, the participants should learn how to build interactive Windows Applications with C#. Participants will also learn how to manipulate databases using ADO.NET. In addition, participants will learn how to use C# to develop ASP.NET applications. With this knowledge the participants will be able to build interactive web sites (Web Forms) as well as Web Services, which have no User Interface but which provide information to other applications through Web protocols such as HTTP and SOAP. Next the
